Originality, in the highest scent of two such artistic antipodes as Wagner nd Meyerbeer, as well as other writers, but there and servility in the invitations, and the fluency of writing is most meritorious. Mr. Moszkowski also has succeeded in avoiding triviality of idea even mough the limitations of his talent compelled him to stop short of largeness and impressiveness of idea. His est approach to commonplace is in the finale of second act which bears an amusing resemblance to his own popular and pretty little serenade.

The opportunities for pictorial display and sumptuous stace furniture which the opera affords (and which were not at all realized in the representation), nd the beauty of the music would surely have made "Boabdil" a success under the recent German regime omparable with Goldmark's "Queen of Sheba." That much short of such a triumph must be charged the defects in the representation for which it would conflish to chide Mr. Hammerstein. Under churlish to chide dreumstances, a thoroughly adequate perform-Nors in the first act should be permitted to out-rage the ears of the listeners, and a "serpentine" imported from some poverty-stricken concert to provoke smiles of derision in the were, however, unpardonable features of the and if the future of the opera and entire enterprise was endangered thereby, Mr. need not be at a loss where to less the blame. There is a limit to the aminbility even of the blame. There is a limit to the anniability even of an addince anxious to give opera in English a fair that. The principal singers were Madame Januschowsky (lords), an earnest, capable, gifted artist; Miss Then Dorri (Alxas, whose contratto voice did not prove equal to the demands of the score, but who displayed gifts of no mean order; Mr. Payne Clarke Boaddil, whose clear, ringing tenor voice has been beard here before; Mr. Conrad Behrens the liman of Grana(3), an efficient basso; Mr. Otto Rathjens (chra), who can sing well, but mars his work by excessive affectation, and Mr. J. Boize (Ferdinand), who knows something of singing, but nothing of actific Under the energetic direction of Mr. Nemendorf, the orchestra did good work, though it was not free from mishaps. The opera will be repeated on Friday. To night "Carmen" will be sung.

THE SYMPHONY STRING QUARTET.

The New-York symphony String Quartet gave the third concert of its series last evening, in the Chamber Masie Hall, before an audience which, in numbers and in temper, showed plainly the high standing it has for itself among New-York music lovers. Mr. Brodsky's programme included Beethoven's quartet in E fat major, op. 74, saint Saens's plano quartet in B flat major, op. 41, and a work new to New-York, a quartet in E minor by Mr. Ottokar Novacek, who is the tola player of the organization.

In bringing forward this composition Mr. Brodsky not only paid his colleague a graceful combut added an extremely inter esting work to the local concert list. night's hearing of it confirmed the good repute is

The composer ought to congratulate himself on the treatment his work received. It was played with an immense fervor and brilliancy, and with a wonderful variety and finish of nuance—in short, with an obvious and lovely devotion to the realization of the composer's purposes. The reception given to Mr. Noveek's work was a very flattering one; time and again he was made to bow his acknowledgments.

DALY'S THEATRE-" THE FORESTERS."

A numerous audience had a happy night at Daly's Theatre, where Tennyson's lovely pastoral of "The Foresters" was revived with thoughtful care and acted with earnest feeling and great felicity of execution. That piece lures the observer's fancy to sunlit forest glades and to the haunted shadow-land of old Listoric remanes. His eyes are charmed with beau-tiful pictures and his hearing is soothed with delicious melody. Nothing has been done upon the stage for s long time that gives so much innocent and refined or so much conduces to gentleness of feeling and to dreamlike fancy. Miss Rehan delivered fuent verse of Tennyson in tones that enhanced its sweetness, and her image as the Saxon heroine Bourchier was gallant and manly as Robin Hood, and Mr. George Clarke breezy as good King Richard and of the Lion Heart. The Fairy Scene proved once more delightful, and it eloquently with which this stage is managed. Miss Rehan's artless vocalism,-which is all the more artistic because it is that of a home minstrel and not an expert,at the Window." Miss Kitty Cheatham repeated her former brilliant success with the Bee Song. "The Foresters' ought to be seen, if only for the joy of ooking upon the sweetly sylvan picture presented by Robin Hood and his outlaws, while they listen to the onorous numbers of "There is no land like England. That song, it turns out, was written by Tennyson about sixty years ago. No wonder it is trenchant and sturdy : But the old and the young poet were one. He grew and broadened; he never changed. Mr. Daly's production of "The Foresters" is a poetle luxury, and the public has within its reach a pure and fragrant tain of enjoyment and benefit.

MISS GALE AS PARTHENIA.

Last night at the Star Theatre Miss Gale (Mrs. Haynes) appeared as Parthenia, in the romantic old play of "Ingomar," and pleased a considerable ace. Parthenia-an artless girl, strong in her very weakness, and victorious by her purity and her fearless innocence—is a character quite within the grasp of that actress. She embodied it sweetly and excellent effect, presenting a handsome person and avoiding insipidity, whether of demeanor or speech. Mr. Ebon Plympton enacted the ragged ingumar, and put forth his Ionic talents with passion-

"OUR CLUB" AT THE UNION SQUARE.

At the Union Square Theatre this week the company besided by E. J. Henley presents a comedy in three acts by F. C. Burnand called "Our Club." The play is fractully written, ingenious in construction and fell-citous in dialogue. The part assumed by Mr. Henley is what is technically known as a character part and suits him a technically known as a character part and suits him much better than a melodramatic hero, such as he at-tempted last week. The previous attempt of the com-Demptod last week. The previous aftempt of the com-pany was indeed a melanchely affair, and probably every member is gind that it is over. Though Mr. Henley is thoroughly amusing, his impersonation is not new, before almost exactly like that which he has previously given nother play. Miss Dorothy Dene has a better op-mity in this piece than her American friends have on her enjoy, and her acting therefore adds to the most part inconspicuous.

SECURED IN HIS ABSENCE AEROAD.

HE HAS BEEN AN EXTENSIVE BUILDER AND

PRESIDENT OF A BREWING COMPANY. Lorenz Weiher, a builder, of No. 172 East S wentleth st., and who has been president 6, the Empire State Brewing Company, at Nos. 135 to 143 West Eighteenth. st., went to Europe on the steamer Elbe on Jan-uary 17. Jacob L. Toch, a creditor, has obtained as attachment against him for $1,200 on the ground that he departed from the State with Intent, as he alleged to defraud creditors. Mr. Toch avers that the neighbors said Mr. Weiher left home on January 17 his three children, who said they were going to Europe, and that the furniture was removed from the house No. 172 East Seventieth-st. between cotilion was danced, Amory S. "I was not aware that he had any creditors. His operations as a builder have always been successful, and only recently he sold the Hotel Lorenz for an amount which would more than cover any debts he might have had. He put up buildings for the sole might have had. He put up unimings for the sole purpose of speculation, and the fact that his agent had been selling some of them recently must not be looked upon as a sign that he has become in-solvent. He had his furniture removed from his house in Twentieth-si, before going abroad, because he contemplates living elsewhere when he returns,

Mr. Weiher has been well known in this city as a builder for the last ten years on account of hi large operations. Twenty-five years ago he was of the firm of Ehrardt, Welher & Co., manufacturers of piano materials, and withdrew in 1871. He began the building business, but went to Baltimore. Returning to this city in 1880 he resumed operations in building on a large scale. He built several rows of dwellings uptown and numerous apartment houses. last large operation was the Hotel Lorenz, at Sev last large operation was the Hotel Lorenz, at Seventy second-st, and Lexington-ave. This property, it is said, he transferred to Lewis Roberts on January 7, subject to a mortgage of $275,000. He also transferred a few weeks ago, it is said, forty seem acres of land at Mount Pressant for a normal consideration. In September, 1804, he made a detailed statement to Bradstreet's of his property in this city. Brooklyn and Orange, which he valued at $7,22,000, mortgaged for $351,000. Besides this he valued his e-pairy in the Empire State Brewing Company's property at $250,000, making a total net claim of $812,000, hat bradstreet's did not give him a capital rating.

Mr. Weiher became president of the Empire State Brewing Company in 1809 and, it is said, owned most of the Work of the company. It has a capital stock of $300,000.

His carts and sweepers went through parts of Malberry-st., Park-st., Baxter-st. and Canal, from the Bowery to Elm-st., on Monday night, under the Commissioner's supervision, and last night they tackled Canal-st., from Broadway to West-st.; Varick, between Franklin and Canal; Hester, between the Bowery and Division, and Ludlow and Essex Sts., from Grand t. Division-st.

Many letters have been sent to the Health Board by citizens lately, complaining about the fifthy condition of the streets, and much of the correspondence has been forwarded to Commissioner Breonan. A number of persons have written to protest against the continuance of the perfult granted by the Health Board to Mr. Brennan lately, under which the carts of the street Cleaning Department have been dumping ash and garbage in Rutgers Stip. President Wilson, of the Health Board, said yesterday: "We thought it would be better to have the askes and garbage dumped on some open ground near the river temporarily than to let them he in front of houses, and I had Dr. Edson look the ground over. He regerted in favor of giving the permit for that one place, and it is not our inten-tion to grant a permit for any other place. The permit will be recalled and the ashes and garbage will be moved from the slip as soon as the scows can be towed to sea. I have been in favor of the cremation of garbage in the city as soon as a practical plan can be devised. In the mean time I am in favor of build-ing crib work at Eiker's Island and filling in there with ashes and garbage. By that means I think the city's and garbage can be di-poset of for several years and the Island will be increased to the extent of over 100 acres by reclaiming the land at the shores. worst difficulty in the way of cremating the city's refuse is the refusal of people living in tenement houses to separate ashes from garlage and keep them in different receptacles for removal."

Commissioner Eryant said: "There is no doubt that the streets are becoming extremely dirty wille the weather prevents the removal of the ashes and garbage, but the fault is largely with the occupants of houses who persist in throwing refuse on the sidewalks and into the gutters. Twenty-sixth-st., to day, I saw heaps of ashes and garbage on the sidewalks all the way from First-ave to Lexington ave., and I have no doubt that the same disregard of the law is shown in other parts of the I have been buring barrels and storing away ashes and garbage in the cellar of my house since the carts of the Street Cleaning Department stopped coming. I do not see how Commissioner Brenna can be blamed for the failure to remove the refu-

SUICIDE OF A NEW-YORKER IN CHICAGO.

W. H. M'ILROY, A REAL ESTATE OPERATOR. SHOOTS BIMSELF-NO CAUSE KNOWN FOR THE ACT.

Chicago, Jan. 24 (special).-William H. Mellroy, of New York, shot and instantly killed himself at about soon to day on the eighth floor of the office part of the Auditorium. He was until recently a member of the firm of Benedict, McIlroy & Fowler, of No. 424 East Fifty-third-st., New-York, coal and lumber merchants. No cause for the shooting is known here Meliroy came to town three or four days ago, and had been staying at the house of Stephen R. Frazier secretary of the Chicago Lumber Company. This morning the two men came downtown together, and McIlroy, after a brief visit to the lumber company's office, returned to the Auditorium. The revolves with which he subsequently ended his life was one Le found in a desk in one of the offices of the company No one shw him take it out. Mr. Frazier said thi afternoon; "I would as soon think of killing myself as I would conceive the possibility of such an by Mr. McIlroy. He was quiet and gentlemanly, and nothing that he did while I was with him I know how he obtained possession of the revolver, which was the property of our office. We keep it here for the use of our paymaster when he is on the road."

The sum of $1.700 in cash was found in McIlrov's pockets, besides a number of letters and business papers. have suggested such an insune inclination. Nor de

William H. Mellroy came to this country from Ire land about eight years ago, and for three years was a partner in the old lumber house of Lenedlet & Fowler, at No. 424 East Fifty-third-st. The partner-ship expired last February, and Mr. Mcliroy at once went into real-estate transactions, having office room in Benedict & Fowler's place. At first he prospered, but lately had been somewhat depressed by reason of unexpected reverses. The Abingdon square Hotel, which was opened about three months ago, and in which he had a controlling interest, added to his troubles. He recently completed a seven-story apart ment hotel at the northeast corner of Medis and One-hundred and sixteenth st., which is said to be mortgaged for $135,000. This was finished by Mr

McBroy after fercelosure on another builder.

Mr. McBroy was seen at Benedict & Fowler's office for the last time on saturday, and then he said that he was going to Chicago on private business and would be back in town on Wednesday. At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the firm received a telegram an nouncing his death. Mr. lenedlet and Mr. Fowler are unable to assign any reason other than financial anxiety for the suicide. Mr. Mellrot, who was a man of high attainments, was twenty-eight years old, unmarried, and, so for as known, had no relatives in this city. Formerly he logged at the Morray Hill Hotel, but of inte had a room at his ewn building in Abingdon Sonare.

Special Agent George W. Whitehead, who for about year has been in charge of the Special Agent's Department at this port, has been relieved at his own request, and will assume charge or the Fifth the Canadian frontier. Mr. Waltehead was in charge there before coming here, and retained supervision of lie found that the duties here did not give him opportunity to make important investigations in his old district, and his health is not good. These reasons led him on January 9 to ask the department for a change. The letter granting his request contained most flattering testimony as to the ability with which he had conducted the agency. The Secretary of the Treasury has designated Special Agent L. M. Montgomery, who has for some time been employed at this port, to succeed Mr. Whitehead as special agent in charge. He will take the place to-day.
